SERWENT acquires Grävsugen i Sverige AB

SERWENT has acquired Grävsugen i Sverige AB. The acquisition strengthens Serwent's offering within dry suction and suction excavation in the Stockholm region.

Grävsugen was founded in 2017 and is based in Kungsängen, northwest of Stockholm. The company has primarily worked with suction excavation and has become specialized in the field of underground infrastructure. It has also helped customers with needs such as dry and vacuum suction.

As demand and the need for suction excavation and dry suction services have grown, the company needed a partner to expand with.

"What has always driven us is an entrepreneurial spirit and a genuine sense of care for our people and customers. In Serwent, we've found a partner who will support our growth while respecting what made us who we are," say Tommi Yrjölä and Mats Dürhagen, founders of Grävsugen i Sverige AB.

"This is a strategically important acquisition for the Stockholm region. The Grävsugen team is genuinely skilled at what they do, and that shows both in the quality of their work and in their standing among customers," says Alexis Brundin, Country Manager at SERWENT Sverige.

This acquisition marks another step in SERWENT Group's long-term ambition to be a relevant and responsible partner for customers across the Nordic region.
